

Past President Report:

July 27, 2011

I haven't been particularly busy the past six months as my job has been getting more involved and I am currently training for a more senior position within my company. Also I have had some heart health issues to deal with which has occupied a great deal of my time. Thankfully things have started to improve and my health is getting better. I have contributed to some discussions within the executive but things have been very low key.

Respectively submitted:
